Widespread Search In Northern Cities For Stranger's Home

(Associated Press)
CULLMAN, Ala., Nov. 5.—Out of a blurred past, a voice has spoken to G. A. Lower, the man who has been trying for two weeks to find out who he is.

It is the voice of J. B. Wisdom, of Clarksville, Tenn., who says that he knew Mr. Lower 25 years ago and that he believes him to be a Tennessee poet.

Mr. Lower was picked up on a road near here by Harry Parker, local business man. He was walking north and said he was headed for Nashville. At Mr. Parker's suggestion he stopped over in Cullman and since his stay here has revealed a strange story of lost identity, with result efforts have been made to find his home in several large cities of the north.

Mr. Lower said that he "came to himself" in the terminal station in Birmingham with a feeling like that of a man awakening for a long phantastic dream. A search of his pocket revealed a piece of paper on which was written the name Lower.

Laundry in a handbag, carried by the lost memory victim, showed the initials "G. A. L."

The man explained that he did not know what to do next. He felt humiliated, he said, over his strange experience and hesitated to tell his story in Birmingham. A flicker of memory continued, keeping him associated with Nashville, so he started afoot for that place.

Marks in his clothing showed that they had been purchased in Dayton, O., so that after he reached Cullman, he wrote to the chiefs of police of several Ohio cities, with a result that the newspapers of that state carried the strange tale.

In his letter to police officials, Mr. Lower described himself.

He said: "I am about 60 years old, five feet, ten inches tall, weigh 147 pounds. I have grey hair and mustache. The top of my head is bald. I have a gold watch and a locket, which contains a small curl of fair hair. I remember everything that has happened since I reached Birmingham but nothing of my life before that time."

Letters came as a result of his query, attesting to the hundreds of anxious families throughout Ohio and nearby states, seeking lost relatives. A Kentucky newspaper, which found its way into Tennessee, brought the letter from J. B. Wisdom, which the writer said definitely he had known a man named G. A. Lower 25 years ago.

In his letter Mr. Wisdom explained he was sending a volume of verse, written by the man, in the hope a reading of the poems might stir his memory.

Cullman has found in Mr. Lower a visitor of rare culture, the many friends he has made since his arrival here say.

NOBLESVILLE, Nov. 5.—A defense motion asking Judge Will M. Sparks to instruct the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty" in the murder trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Gentry and Earl Klenck was overruled by the court today. The motion was predicated on the ground that the state had failed to make a case.

In declining to hear arguments on the motion Judge Sparkie said, "He had not come to this court to hear arguments."

The state rested its case late yesterday. Defendants are charged with murder in connection with the death of Madge Oberholzer. She took poison after an alleged abduction and attack last March.

EMBARGO LIFTED BY THE ELLENEN

Cotton Shipments To Be Handled Here
Without Ban

The embargo on incoming cotton shipments has been lifted by the Louisville and Nashville railroad it was announced today at the company's freight office on Lee street. The embargo was lifted several days ago by the Southern railway, it was announced at the company's freight office.

The embargo was placed in effect on incoming cotton shipments by both railroads several weeks ago, as a result of the congested condition existing in local railroad yards, following the unprecedented rapidity with which cotton was picked and ginned throughout this section early in the fall.

The rating of the past few weeks materially checked picking all over North Alabama and there was a pronounced let-up in receipt of cotton here for the compress. The period of quiet permitted the yards to clear and the embargoes to be lifted by both of the railroads.

ANOTHER election day is over. Many millions of Americans have solemnly voted, a majority not knowing much about those for whom they voted, or what their candidates represented. A majority will be disappointed in their hopes, if they had any hopes. An overwhelming majority voted merely because it is considered good citizenship to vote. It's also the American custom to not to know much about what is going on behind the political scene.

Lowering Of Grades
Materially

PICKING NOW IS VERY FAR BEHIND

Scores Of Tenants Are Said To Debate
The Question

Fear that much cotton may be allowed by tenant farmers to rot in the fields was expressed here today by agricultural observers as rains continued to delay the gathering of the final pickings from the fields.

It was pointed out that many tenant farmers have not been able to get more than 80 per cent of the yield from the fields. Since the opening of the season prices for pickers have been climbing gradually until now they average from the minimum of $1.50 per hundred to $2.00 per hundred. Based on these figures, the cost of picking is about two cents, seed cotton, making around four cents for lint.

Added to this cost is the charge for ginning and the fact that the greater part of this cotton, because of the rains, now is extremely low grade, bringing low prices. When the cost is figured against the low grade prices, many tenant farmers are said to have realized that their share is little more than the bare cost of gathering to say nothing of their loss of time.

For this reason scores of tenant farmers are declared to be debating whether or not to finish picking. If the rains continue much longer, with the consequent continued lowering of grade, these observers were of the opinion much cotton would never find its way to market.

(Associated Press)
MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 5.—An offer of $1,000 for the body of George (Dutch) Anderson, the nationally hunted gunman, who killed four persons during his life of crime, and is suspected of the murder of several others, was received today from George W. Rollins from Atlanta, Ga. Rollins wired the offer to Chief of Police Hansen and gave bank references.

He said he wanted the body for exhibition purposes.

Chief Hansen expressed a desire to sell the body and turn the money over to the widow of Detective Charles Hammon, who killed Anderson, after Anderson had mortally wounded him Saturday.

A state law, however, will prevent acceptance of the Atlanta offer.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The veil of mystery which surrounded the real identity of George Anderson, the slayer, bank robber and desperado, whose career was ended Saturday by a bullet from his own gun in Muskegon last Saturday, was pierced today.

A copyrighted story in the Rochester Journal and Post-Express prints the life history of the bandit as given by William J. Baker, an attorney of this city, and to whom the police of the Michigan city have turned for advice now that the curtain has fallen on one of the most amazing crime dramas of America.

The records at Atlanta federal penitentiary gave the name of Baker as the person to be called in case of death.

While the bullet-riddled body of George Anderson lies in the morgue at Muskegon, it will be interred temporarily in that city, at Baker's direction, a widowed mother waits patiently in Denmark for another letter from the boy she things is prospering in business in this country.

That letter will never come and to the Rochester attorney falls the lot of breaking the sad news. Madame Von Teller, representative of a noble Danish family, never knew that her son, Ivan Dahl Von Teller, and Dutch Anderson, internationally known bandit, safe blower and desperado, were one and the same.

Baker said "she does not know. I hope she will never know."

"No matter what others may say about Anderson's real name being Browne, or Heinz, or any other aliases he used, and fixing his birthplace as St. Louis, or any American city, the fact remains and I can vouch for its authenticity that he was born in Denmark and christened Ivan Dahl Von Teller.

"At the age of 20 he ran away from home and came to America. With the lid off, it was not long before he fell in with criminals of various kinds and soon his genius for crime began to assert itself. From petit crimes he soon became a member of larger mobs and it was not long before he found himself a leader in the circle of those who lived by pitting their intelligence against that of the police for big stakes.

"In his berillion pictures there is an unmistakable sheer in the downward left corner of his mouth. Although even among the police he was almost characterized as the gentleman.

"Bobbed Hair"

A DAZZLING MYSTERY STORY BY TWENTY FAMOUS AUTHORS

"BOBBED HAIR" with Marie Prevost is a dramatization of this story by

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore was to announce her engagement by midnight or be disinherited by Aunt Celimena. If her hair was bobbed, Bingham Carrington was her choice; otherwise, Saltonstall Adams. Connie has disappeared, leaving behind a bunch of her dresses, in time paper. Bing accepts this as evidence that he is the accepted one. Meanwhile, the girl, garbed as a nun, has driven to the shore of the Sound with young David Lacy and is about to board a ferry for Long Island.

"What makes you think all her hair's been cut off?" Salt asked angrily.

Poppy broke into the discussion before the Southerner could answer. "She told me she had planned one last puzzle," she announced, "and that she'd come in and untangle it as soon as you'd given up."

They all looked expectantly at the doors again, but this time nothing happened except the sudden and solemn booming of the grandfather clock in the hall, sounding the first stroke of twelve. And though no one attempted to put it into words, they were all vaguely aware at the same instant of a queer little sense of finality of the definite ending of something, and the beginning of something else, nobody knew just what, as the old clock continued to strike, slowly and matter-of-factly.

Elderly, withered little Mr. Brewster, Miss Celimena's lawyer, broke the silence the clock left.

"The announcement had to be made before twelve to be binding," he said in his thin, throaty voice.

"Tell him," she gasped faintly, "it was a masquerade—nun's dress."

"Two announcements have been made, but both cannot, of course, hold. Miss Connemara had better stop the play now and come forward to tell us which one of them is true. Otherwise—" He held out his hands, and shook a disappearing gray head.

"Oh, she'll be here in a moment," Poppy assured him confidently. "And she's safe, either way, because one of the announcements has to be legal, hasn't it, Mr. Brewster? Let's just go on dancing. She'll get tired of teasing us if she sees we're not waiting for her."

So the orchestra was commanded to resume and everyone began to dance again, though in rather a half-hearted and desultory manner, with one eye on the door and the other uninterestedly on his partner.

An hour passed that was longer than all the rest of the evening before it put together, and still no Connemara with the promised unraveling. At the end of that time Miss Celimena, her face very pale, beckoned both Saltonstall and Bing into a corner of the ballroom.

"Something's happened to her," she said, with a little catch in her voice. "She'd never carry a joke as far as this. Won't you—won't you both go out and look for her? Poppy and some of the girls and I will search the house."

Very soberly, their former hostility forgotten, the two went out, and Miss Celimena, her hand in Poppy's strong young arm, walked heavily toward the hall and the staircase at the end.

The grandfather clock which had already ticked off so much anxiety just preparing to sound two when an anxious group of unsuccessful searchers met at the open front door, and mutely asked and answered the question that was in every eye, but which nobody wanted to put into words.

STEELE HOME FUND RECEIVES IMPETUS

Memphis Man Gives 60 Foot Lot At Lake Junaluska

The movement started recently looking toward the building of a cottage at Lake Junaluska, N. C., for Dr. Samuel Steele, received added impetus today with the announcement sent W. W. Benson, treasurer of the fund, that John R. Pepper, Memphis church worker for the past forty years will give a sixty foot building lot toward the lake. Contribution has also been received from Dr. John A. Rice, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

This plan was adopted at a recent meeting of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church, Decatur and W. W. Benson, superintendent of the Decatur schools was chosen as treasurer. Church papers have become interested in the move, the Nashville Christian Advocate commending the plan and paying a tribute to Dr. Steele. Dr. Steele recently wrote Mr. Benson, "I am so overcome by the kindness of my friends that I hardly know how to express myself." Mr. Benson stated today that the plan will be at a standstill until after a conference with Dr. R. T. Tyler, new pastor of the church.

The following resolutions were adopted at the recent meeting of the stewards and represent a distinct tribute to the work which Dr. Steele has accomplished in past years:

We, the stewards of the First Methodist Church, South, of Decatur, Alabama, have read with much pleasure an article written by Dr. George C. Wilding and published in the Alabama Christian Advocate of Oct. 15.

This distinguished Methodist preacher of New Jersey pays a wonderful tribute of love and admiration to Dr. Sam A. Steele, and advocates the raising of a voluntary fund for the purchase of a cottage for Dr. Steele at Lake Junaluska.

This movement arises without previous knowledge on our part, but it meets with our enthusiastic approval, and we herewith endorse it unconditionally as a cause altogether worthy.

Dr. Steele, who served his most recent pastorate at this church, is getting along in years, but he is still brilliant and capable of doing great work in the religious field if he can have a little home up in the mountains by the lake, where he always enjoys good health and is at his best.

We hope and believe that other churches that this grand old man has served in the past and hundreds of people who have heard him in sermon and lecture, will contribute to this good cause. They can thus show their appreciation of his labors and help to make him happy and strong for continued work for the Master.

We note that Prof. W. W. Benson of this city has been nominated for treasurer of the proposed fund, and we heartily endorse this selection. Professor Benson is a member of this church, superintendent of the city schools, and a careful business man. He will take care of the cottage fund as a sacred trust and make a strict accounting of all moneys entrusted to him.

So send on your checks, big or little, to Treasurer Benson. We request the Nashville Advocate, the Alabama

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled. Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like "a vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poltice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

OTHEATRES

The possibilities for farce comedy in a revolution in an imaginary country have been seized by Harold Lloyd and exploits in "Why Worry?" his new Pathe-comedy showing today at the Princess theater. It is pure farce plus the Lloyd personality and production atmosphere.

"Why Worry?" was written by Sam Taylor, assisted by Ted Wilde and Tim Whelan, Fred Newmeyer and Tom Taylor directed. The picture introduces Jobyna Ralston as Lloyd's leading woman. A figure in the case is new to the screen is John Ansen, declared to be the biggest man in the world. He is 8 feet, 9 1/4 inches tall and weighs 460 pounds—without his shoes. These are said to give John Ansen an avoirdupois "on the lot" reading out the figure to 500. man crook, he himself admitted hatred against organized society.

"This," he attributed, to an experience in South Carolina when he was convicted of a crime because, as he would have phrased it, "there was one else to hang it on" and sent to one of the turpentine camps operated by convict labor.

Although Baker said he would never be captured alive again, the attorney said, "but the thing I can't understand is this story he had a woman companion with him when he was captured. Anderson never worked with women, to my knowledge, and I have known him for a long time."

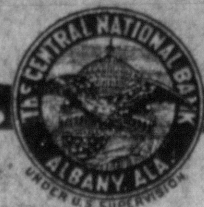

From the time of his release from Auburn until his escape from Atlanta, Baker declared, Anderson looked upon Rochester as a kind of sanctuary and refrained from plying his vocation in this city. He visited the attorney many times during his first years and, according to Baker, invariably notified Detective Captain McDonald his presence in the city, to avoid the humiliation of being picked up in the street and taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Baker said he would arrange to have the body of the bandit interred in Muskegon and then would communicate with Madame Von Teller as to the final disposition of the body of her son, Ivan.

"She does not get the American papers," he said, "and for many years he only news from America has been the regular letters from home."

Anderson met Gerald Chapman, equally famous bandit, in Auburn prison when he was serving a sentence for a jewelry robbery in Rochester. As, at that time, teaching Spanish in the prison school and found Chapman a kindred spirit. From that time, Baker said, their paths ran together, until Chapman's arrest in New Briton, Conn.

Continuing the drive for better dairy cattle and improved stock on the farms of Morgan County, J. C. Ford, county farm agent today made an interesting report of a recent trip into middle Tennessee which he made in company with several prominent Morgan County citizens with the view to improving conditions in this county.

Mr. Ford has been working for a long time in the interest of the movement, in connection with the call made in these cities for an increased supply of products suitable for dairy manufacturers, and the trip into Tennessee was the first step toward helping the Morgan County farmer increase his dividends at the end of the year.

The following is Mr. Ford's report of the trip:

"Last week H. F. Bailey, W. E. Steed, L. M. Aday and myself made a trip to Columbia, Spring Hill and Franklin, Tenn., looking for good Jerseys. Steed and Aday each bought and I bought a bull calf for L. E. Sandlin.

Sandlin's calf is from a cow that made 606 pounds of butter fat in one year on two milkings a day, and his sire's mother made 442 pounds in a year, beginning when 23 months old. Also on two milkings a day. The herd from which this calf came is owned by Mrs. McKay, a widow, who makes her living by keeping a herd of the highest producing Jerseys. The herd is small, but the cows are real producers.

Mr. Sandlin has two registered Jersey cows and four heifers which he expects to have registered. With these cows and such an excellent bull as foundation, this herd should soon be a source of pride to the entire county.

Aday's buy is equally as well bred as Sandlin's, though I do not have the details at hand. Aday has one good pure bred heifer and an excellent grade herd. He expects to gradually replace his grades with high-producing registered animals. Here should be another herd of which the entire county may be proud.

Steed bought a bred heifer. Her sire's mother produced over 1,000 pounds fat in a year in the Hood Farm herd, probably being milked three times a day. She is bred to a Hood Farm bull whose mother made one record of 799 pounds, fat, and is said to have recently completed another years test in which she made over 900 pounds fat. Steed has one half interest in a bull of equal breeding. If his animals run true to form he should soon have a herd equal to the best.

The scrub and his progeny and those who champion his cause are in for some hard sledding in Morgan County.

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days or Money Back

My Dear Friends:

After my attack of flu I was thin, run-down and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunk in and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stuffy and had lost my appetite. I had read about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and decided to give them a trial. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Miss Alberta Rogers, 264 W. Cerro Gorda St., Decatur, Ill.

To take on weight, grow strong and vigorous to fill out the hollows in cheeks and neck, try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days. 60 Tablets—60 cents at Caddell Drug Co., and druggists everywhere. If they don't give you wonderful help in 30 days, get your money back—you be the judge. But be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine.—Adv't.

SHAKING PALSY MAY LAST FOR YEARS

Little May Be Done to Relieve the Disease Except to Avoid Worry and Live a Simple Life.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A GENTLEMAN living in the great Northwest wants an article on "Parkinson's disease." He has been told that this is his trouble.

My correspondent, who is past sixty, says that for some time, in putting on his coat, he noticed a little pain in his left arm. After a while his doctor said his bad teeth and tonsils must be removed to relieve what was called neuritis. Having them out did no good.

Then the pain began to move about, but always the left side was the one involved. The arm or leg and sometimes both, were painful. Next he noticed trembling or tremor in his arm and now it is in the leg.

The victim says he isn't afraid to die, but doesn't want to be crippled. Naturally, he inquires as to the cause and what can be done to relieve Parkinson's disease.

The common name for this disease is "shaking palsy." It is known to the doctors as "paralysis agitans." First described by Dr. Parkinson, it is called Parkinson's disease.

One particular feature of the ailment is known as "Parkinson's mask." This is an early indication of the approach of shaking palsy. The eyebrows are drawn up all the time, the lips move slightly and slowly in speaking, and the face is almost without expression. It is as if the features had been cast into a motionless mask.

Slight pain, weakness of the muscles and general stiffness are observed. Muscular movements are made slowly and with deliberate effort. Short, hurried steps are characteristic. One writer has said that the victim acts as if he were "running after his centre of gravity."

The trembling or tremor is the significant symptom. For years it may be in one leg or in one arm or both. The hands are apt to be most affected. One writer calls attention to the peculiar movements of the forefinger and thumb, as if the afflicted person were rolling a ball.

Unfortunately there is little to do to relieve the symptoms. The ailment lasts for years and years. There are periods when there seems to be improvement, but in the end the disease slowly progresses.

Fortunately the mind is not disturbed. The mental processes are just as good as ever. There is almost no suffering from the worry of what may happen, but the cultivation of a patient philosophy, with submission to the annoyance of the trembling and the disturbed gait, will help a lot to bear the inevitable.

We are hopeful that the glandular extracts may prove useful. Some progress is being made in this direction. What is known as the "parathyroid extract" has been used with some benefit.

Answers to Health Queries

A DAILY READER. Q.—I am a girl of 18, 5 feet 6 inches tall. What should I weight? How can I gain weight?

A.—You should weigh about 126 pounds. Build up your general health and you will not only gain in weight but benefit throughout your entire system. For full particulars see a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. C. B. R. Q.—How many weeks after a child starts coughing with whooping cough is there danger of contagion?

A.—My little girl has been coughing since March? Is it safe to take her among other children now?

A.—There is danger of contagion while there is any discharge.

I.—Yes, if the above condition does not exist.

IRENE L. Q.—What do you advise for yellow jaundice?

A.—A restricted diet as regards fats, sugars and starches and regular intestinal elimination should prove helpful for this condition. The family doctor should prescribe whatever medication may be necessary. Copyright, 1925, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New Strength for Tired Women

Do you feel tired, run-down and exhausted long before the day's work is finished? Why is it that women will permit repeated attacks of dizziness, headache, backache, nervous exhaustion, indigestion and constipation, when perhaps all they need is a good general tonic? No woman can feel her best troubled with these ailments. To let them run on uncorrected is the greatest mistake in the world.

Thousands of ailing men and women have been made strong, well and happy with Lyko. The secret of this remedy's wonderful success is the combination of medicinal ingredients it contains. One aids digestion; another is a laxative that keeps the bowels open; another acts on the kidneys, and a fourth aids the liver. With these vital organs working in proper harmony, the health-destroying poisons are driven or carried out of the system.

No matter what you have tried before, go to your druggist today and ask for a bottle of Lyko, the great general tonic. Find out for yourself how simple and easy it is to keep well with the aid of this marvelous remedy.

Lyko Helped Mrs. Wills

An Oklahoma man, Mr. Gallion, tells about the help Lyko gave his wife after other remedies had failed. His letter says: "The wonderful relief Lyko has given my wife. She has been taking all kinds of medicine which did no good. I saw Lyko advertised and got it and it is doing her lots of good."

Relief at Once

"I was subject to constipation, my kidneys were out of order and I was run-down and so nervous I could hardly get along. I was advised by my physician to try Lyko. I got relief at once," is what R. Sledge of Mississippi reports.

Could Not Eat—Now Well

Walter Schell, of San Francisco says: "For many years I tried everything to build me up. I was run-down in health, could not eat, my condition was very bad. A friend recommended Lyko. Today I am a happy man. I have got my health back."

12 Years Ago
TODAYFrom The Daily of
November 5, 1913

The Decatur city council last night declined to accept the resignation of Alderman T. M. Jones, declaring his services were needed by the city.

Brakeman Kelley, of the Southern railway, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday. He was riding atop of a freight car when he was struck by a wire.

"Music or no Music" was the subject of a debate at the Moulton Street Christian church last night.

Mrs. George Williamson was hostess to the Culture club Tuesday afternoon.

J. P. Thomas has returned from Birmingham, an urgent business call causing his return from the land congress meeting there.

A man who has his Christmas shopping completed by the last Thursday in November truly would have something to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day.

Business conditions are reported slowing up a bit in Florida. The chorus of "I told you so's" is about to begin.

The former Sultan is reported in poverty. As sympathetic as America is, it will be difficult to stir up much sympathy for him.

One thing Alabamians could do for themselves would be to register at least a majority of the qualified voters for next year's elections.

The stranger who ran from a Decatur store with a suit of clothes, shoes and a hat, without paying for the articles, now realizes that "haste makes waste." He dropped the hat.

This kind of weather makes us appreciate good roads and cuss bad ones. It provides a splendid opportunity for highway officials, city, county, state and national, to make friends for themselves.

After describing the sad plight of a man, whose charred body, dismembered, had been found, the headline writer in the Gadsden Times-News adds the sheriff suspects foul play. The official must be a regular Sherlock Holmes.

Someone parked a car in front of The Daily office with a sign on the machine's windshield: "Stop Accidents." That is a fine slogan for adoption by all motorists. As a usual thing, the writer thinks automobile stickers are about the most useless things inventive man has yet produced, but this "stop accidents" sign is something worthwhile.

The Courier over at Athens finds there are no "big guns" listed in the coming gubernatorial battle. We wonder just what the Courier would like to have listed in the coming political battle? Andrew Patterson and Mr. Carmichael are certainly the pick of North Alabamians, even if there are no others to enter—we hope that there will not be, it seems to us that these two candidates will furnish enough stir for Limestone county and the remainder of the state.

With so many candidates for governor and United States senator offering their services to the people of Alabama, it is a lucky voter who knows all of them. As The Daily, once before, has suggested, why not arrange a trip all over the state by all of the candidates, at the same time, in order that people generally may have an opportunity to meet with them, to talk with them and to hear the issues of the day debated from every angle.

Construction of new hotels, country clubs, laying off of subdivisions, realty values booming over-night are all very well for a community, in Florida or elsewhere, but for us we prefer the steady, substantial growth of a city like Birmingham. New steel mills, factories and plants of all descriptions make payrolls and payrolls make a city. Real estate commissions do not.

IMMENSE AMOUNT OF GOOD DONE BY THE CAFETERIA SERVICE AT SCHOOL

The recent published statement from the treasurers of the Parent-Teachers Association, which organization operates the cafeteria at the Albany high school, amazed a good many people, who had no idea that the operations of the cafeteria department were on such a large scale.

More than $3,000 is required to operate the department during a single school term. It is a tribute to the personnel of the Association and those who directly are in charge of the cafeteria that the department has been and is being operated, without the organization having requested any donations whatever from the public.

The Association does not intend that the cafeteria will be a money-making proposition. The fact that good warm lunches are served to the students and members of the faculty for 15 cents and less shows conclusively that the cafeteria never will have to pay income tax.

Yet, it must not be overlooked that in spite of these low prices, the cafeteria is paying its own way. That is a record any firm, company or individual might well be proud of.

AN EXAMPLE OF HOW A PUBLIC UTILITY CAN CONTRIBUTE TO BEAUTY OF CITY

In years gone by public utilities gave little thought, as did other manufacturers, to the appearance of their plants. In most instances the neighborhoods in which the plants were located reflected, to some extent, this carelessness and for many years the expression "gas house district" in the large municipalities brought immediately into the public mind the mental conception of a district noted for strong political organizations, equally strong odors and frequent fights.

Not having the problem of congestion which larger cities face, the Twin Cities never have had such situations here, but the local gas plant never has been what might be truthfully called a thing of beauty. All this, however, is to be changed.

Under the management of Garner Pride, a local man, the Alabama Power company has decided to make sweeping changes in its plant equipment, and, at the same time, to make the appearance of the plant easier on the eyes.

The fence about the old plant has been torn out. The "back fence" is to be rebuilt in a more attractive outline. The grounds about the place are to be beautified. Paint brushes will be applied where they will do the most good and flowers and grass will replace the sordidness of the old "lawn."

Thus the march of progress goes on and thus a public utility corporation shows again how it can and does contribute to the beauty of a city, as well as its comforts. The old electric plant on First avenue long has presented a well-kept appearance. The gas plant, The Daily understands, is to do the same thing.

On behalf of the people of the community, The Daily congratulates Mr. Pride and his company.

RESULTS OF ELECTIONS GIVE LITTLE INDICATION OF THE TREND

Democrats may take heart from the elections of Tuesday, but, after all is simmered down, the elections, unimportant in many cases, furnish little to indicate any pronounced partisan trend.

It is true the democrats won the mayoralty election in New York, but that was largely a foregone conclusion, for Tammany had "its back up" and when Tammany desires, Tammany can put up a fairly healthy fight in New York city. The democrats reversed republican presidential plurality in New Jersey and elected a governor, but again we find many issues entering into the campaign, notably prohibition. Even the anti-prohibitionists cannot claim much glory from that campaign, for New Jersey often before has given indication of its wet leaning and if the result is to be considered only on a wet and dry issue, the dries make probably a better showing than they had anticipated.

So it goes, in virtually every other section, some issue, other than a straight out party fight, decided the election. As a rule the smaller elections shed little real light on the major ones, and Tuesday's voting was no exception.

PRESIDENT STILL HOPEFUL THAT ALL WILL BE WELL WITH MUSCLE SHOALS

People of the Tennessee Valley are hopeful that President Coolidge's faith in the ability of the Muscle Shoals commission to adjust its differences is not misplaced.

There is every reason why the members of the commission should make their report to President Coolidge in time for the executive to prepare his recommendations for congress, prior to the opening of the December session. Decision on the subject has too long been delayed already and the absence of any constructive policy by congress not only has worked a hardship on the people to whom Muscle Shoals belongs, but has cost congress, itself, heavily in prestige.

The people of this section believe that President Coolidge, when he appointed the commission, was firm in his belief that the members would be able to find some plan for operation of the Shoals which he could approve and congress could adopt in lieu of any policy of its own. The people of this section do not believe that the executive was indulging in any "political kidding" when he selected his commission personnel.

Now that the members of the commission have almost concluded their investigations, they have faced a grave responsibility. Had they not intended to adopt a policy they should never have undertaken the job. Now that they have spent time and money in making such investigations, it is strictly up to them to accomplish something.

The people expect it, and rightfully so.

PROSPECTS FOR PEACE

It is safe to assert that never before in the history of the world has there been a more encouraging outlook for world peace. Nobody is optimistic enough to believe that there will be no more wars for, as a matter of fact, wars are even now in progress. There may be another world war within the next decade, but the nations are advancing rapidly toward a condition in world affairs which will make armed conflict improbable.

Considerable comment has been occasioned by the remarks of Viscount Ishii, of Japan, in the closing session of the Locarno conference, who expressed the hope that there would be a multiplication in other parts of the world of pacts like those agreed upon at Locarno, many of the statesmen present believing that the Japanese representative had in mind a security pact of the Pacific, which would embrace the United States.

There has been a lot of excitement in this country at times over the prospect of future war with Japan. Most of it has been wild propaganda but the element of danger of future war in the Pacific nevertheless remains, and this country certainly ought to be highly civilized enough to make every possible effort to prevent such a war. With Japan for and actually winning the supremacy of the Pacific as far as shipping is concerned, likelihood of misunderstandings between Japan and the United States is omnipresent.

Our own great War President started a movement which is spreading to all parts of the world, and men of brains the world over are concentrating their thoughts on ways and means of avoiding future wars. The movement is unquestionably gaining momentum, and the people of the earth may well feel encouraged over the progress which is being made.

The signing of the security pact at Locarno and the quelling of the Greco-Bulgarian war by the League of Nations stand out as two of the greatest accomplishments of the century. The movement toward world peace is of course, in its infancy, but it will grow rapidly.—Florence News.

al finance, and well appreciating the debt of the United States to Italy, will make every effort, undoubtedly, to meet the wishes of the Italian people in this matter.

As has been said here before, the debt of the United States to Italy for services rendered is infinitely greater than the total amount of Italy's present debt to the United States.

THE latest news in our national crime wave comes from New York City's police commissioner, Enright. "Martial law will obtain twenty-four hours a day." Cars equipped as fighting arsenals, with radio sets, machine guns, tear bombs and rifles will patrol the streets.

At least we seem to know that at the crime wave is here, even if we don't know just what to do about it.

"INFLATION" is the cry when wise ones gather to wonder what causes the wild times in Wall street. Prices that have already doubled and trebled jump up 20 points in a day. It makes old-time finance nervous for two reasons, first, because it didn't "get in at the start" second, because it is afraid something may happen to hurt everybody.

Perhaps wise finance has been slow to realize that incomes in the United States are doubled, spending and values increased.

CONGRESSMAN REID tells the court martial trying Colonel Mitchell that not one of 100,000,000 Americans believe that anything the Colonel said about our air program was said "with a malicious and wicked intent." That's true. Fortunately it is ruled that Colonel Mitchell may summon witnesses, even including magnificent lofty members of the cabinet!

It is hoped he will call, if army and navy rules of fair play allow it, the men really responsible for our aircraft inefficiency in general, and for the ruin of the Shenandoah, with destruction of many lives in particular.

MAN is a curious animal, and no quadrumanus in the Zoo takes him self more seriously. In Detroit men on a jury, smoking in a jury room were horrified when a jury woman lit a cigarette. The gentlemen jurors protested to the judge against such unladylike conduct.

"Man, proud man, drest in a little brief authority, plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep."

They used to make women weep also; now women only laugh. Man's crown of domination is gone, although he doesn't know it. Nevertheless women that smoke are foolish in ten separate ways.

ACCORDING to the bureau of public roads, the United States at the end of this year will have 500,000 miles of good hard surface roads. That is less than one tenth of what the country needs and ought to have.

Put the automobiles of the United States along the 500,000 miles of hard roads and the roads would be well covered.

Examination Of Children To Start

The examination of Morgan County school children by the health department will be started next week, according to plans announced today by Dr. H. C. McRee, county health officer.

He stated it was planned at present to begin the examinations in the schools of Valhermosa and Woodland Mills on next Monday. The complete itinerary for the county probably will be mapped out soon.

THOUGHTS

OF THE WEEK

By J. A. West

ARMISTICE DAY

The cycle of time is rapidly bringing the world to the anniversary of Armistice Day. That day when more genuine heart throbs of joy filled the breasts of millions of people than ever before. The day when all the death dealing machines of destruction were spiked, and human life breathed easier. The day when in millions of homes the thoughts went out to the sons on the battle fields of France, hoping against hope that life was still the portion of those splendid American soldiers who risked their all for their country. The day when that awful carnage ceased, and the river of human blood ceased its tide, and the area of peace hovered over the shell torn area of destruction. The day when the white flag went up, supplanting the red one, announcing that hostilities had ceased, and that the tired and war weary soldiers could have a respite from the awful scenes and experiences of more than four years and now had the opportunity to lie down and rest and dream of home and those they held most dear. The day when the taut nerves of millions of people relaxed and minds could dwell upon holier things, and again take up the battle of peace for the last chapter of the horrid drama of war had been written, and the stream of gold and blood was automatically stopped.

From the time when the curtain went up on the first scene of this drama, to the time it descended at its close, there had been enacted in reality, some of the most awful scenes of destruction and death, of which the human mind is capable of conceiving. Thousands upon thousands of homes were in mourning because there slept in the soil of France thousands of American soldiers, the pick and flower of their country, who had made the supreme sacrifice.

Thousands of mothers sat in darkness wondering the why of it all, never recovering after the announcement reached her that her son had fallen.

Young wives held to their bosom their first born, living in anxiety and fear lest the father should be numbered among the lost, never to see the object of his affection, although he had written of the sweet anticipation of the day when he should return, and messages of love came with every letter.

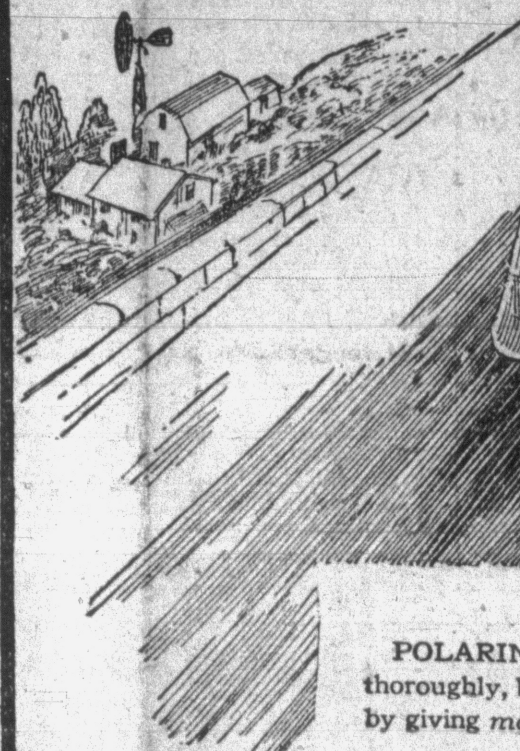

Fathers, bent with the weight of years, bending lower as the strong sons went out from that home, realized that they had lost the staff upon which they could lean in their fast declining years, sat in grief, as report after report reached these shores of those who were numbered among the fatality lists.

America owes a supreme debt of gratitude to her war sons, living and dead, which words alone can not pay. There should be something more substantial; something which will meet the wants of those who survived, making them feel in a true sense that their acts of bravery and devotion to the cause which they so loyally defended, is not forgotten.

Armistice Day, November 11, should be a great day, and the millions of busy artisans of this great republic should bow in reverential awe, thereby expressing a concrete example of the fact that they have not forgotten.

MRS. WALLACE AND MISSES WALLACE ENTERTAIN

Mrs. D. I. Wallace and her two daughters, Misses Helen and Ladye Blumette, are giving a series of bridge luncheons this week, the first of which occurred on Wednesday. Their home on Ferry Street, which is one of the most spacious and lovely in the Twin Cities was artistically decorated with a profusion of evergreens which made an attractive background for the silver and rose baskets filled with gorgeous yellow and white chrysanthemums. On the table of each basket loops of pink tulle were tied. Pink tapers in silver holders centered each table where at one o'clock a delicious plate luncheon was served with hot rolls and coffee. The afternoon was spent at bridge and Mrs. George E. Wallace received the prize, a tinted sandwich plate. Mrs. H. H. May who made second highest score was presented a souvenir.

The following is a list of the guests invited for this day: Mrs. S. E. Patterson, Mrs. J. R. Daniell, Mr. H. E. Dryden, Jr., Miss Eleanor Ramage, Mrs. Leroy McEntire, Mrs. George Clemm Mrs. Earl Parker Mrs. Garner P. ride, Miss Marjorie Beard, Mrs. John C. Bragg, Mrs. J. Y. Hamill, Mrs. B. M. The club is studying hymnology this year so on this afternoon Mrs. Z. Trimble told of the life of the composer of "Just As I Am" and if his inspiration that caused him to write it. Body In Swamp May Be That Of Nurse

(Associated Press)

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 5.—Tensas swamp's mystery murder, discovered October 12, when the charred body of a woman, pronounced that of a negro, was found cremated on a pile of pine logs, was made the object of police investigation here when the supposed victim was found serving a jail sentence and a missing 17-year-old girl now is believed to have been the victim.

The body burned almost to ashes, was resting on a crude pyre and had been fired with gasoline. It was identified as that of Cora McKnight, negro woman.

Today the McKnight woman was brought to Winnsboro, La., to serve a jail sentence, following conviction on a liquor selling charge in Franklin Parish, in which a portion of Tensas Swamp is located, and a gold ring taken from the cremated body was partially identified as one worn

Helpful Advice to Girls

—By Annie Laurie.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and have been going out with a young man in my town for quite a while. Recently he has stopped coming to see me. I cannot imagine what it is all about, because I can't think of a thing I have said or done to cause this.

He has told me many times that he loves me, but do you believe, acting like this means that he still loves me?

FORSAKEN. It is quite certain that you have done nothing to offend this young man, there is no reason why you should make an attempt to renew your friendship with him. Perhaps his interest in you is waning, and if this is so it would be unwise for you to try to regain it. See your other friends, have a good time and don't brood.

about this one friendship. If the young man really enjoys your company he will eventually "come back."

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl fifteen years of age and am "keeping company" with a man ten years my senior. We have interests in common and enjoy each other's company. Do you think he is too old for me?

GOLDEN LOCKS. Although this young man may prove a very interesting companion, I think it is most unwise for you to limit yourself to his friendship, my dear. You are much too young to "keep company" and I think your parents must realize this. If they approve of this young man, continue your friendship with him, but do not give up your other friends.

FARM BUREAU ASKS FOR COTTON REPORTS

Fall In Staple Price Is Without Any Good Reason, Stated

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 5.—Calling upon the United States Congress by resolution the executive committee of the Alabama Federation Farm Bureau yesterday requested the continuance of crop reports by the department of agriculture in behalf of 26,000 farm members of the bureau the committee warmly endorsed the work of the crop reporting board.

Issuance of the statement declaring there is no good statistical reason why cotton prices are below the average of the 1924-25 season and calling for orderly marketing of the remainder of the 1925 crop was another main accomplishment of the committee.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, authorized by the committee to double the bureau's subscription in the Alabama Credit Bureau corporation, provided the same action is taken by the cotton association. A doubled subscription on the part of both brings the total to $50.00.

The executive committee of the bureau is comprised of Edward A. O'Neal, Florence; John R. Witt, Belle Mina; R. P. Oron, Evergreen; Mrs. J. N. Morris, Alpine; Dr. T. H. Appleton, Collinsville; W. R. Hall, Eutaw; S. T. Storrs, Wetumpka; J. D. Espy, Abbeville; Allen Northington, Montgomery, and C. W. Rittenour, Montgomery.

Florence McCurley, 17, white, of Oakdale, La., who came to Natchez several weeks ago to enter a training school for nurses, and who disappeared October 6.

Chief of Police Ryan of this city announced last night that friends of Miss McCurley who had viewed the ring said it apparently was one worn by the missing girl.

Miss McCurley left the city the afternoon of October 6 for an automobile ride with an unidentified escort and failed to return, police were told.

PALE, NERVOUS

West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1944 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time."

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

Cardui is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.

Pale, Tired Mother Should Beware of Chronic Fatigue

Many a discouraged mother thinks that her thin, pale, tired-out condition is due to exhausting housework and care of children—when as a matter of fact the real cause of all her distressing ailments is chronic fatigue. Don't confuse chronic fatigue with the ordinary fatigue you feel after a good long walk. Chronic fatigue comes from within. Your organs and muscles have become debilitated due to lack of sufficient organic iron in your blood. To conquer chronic fatigue you must strengthen your system by restoring this organic iron to your blood. Don't take the older mineral iron pills which many doctors now do little good. Take organic iron in Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and lentils. Unlike ordinary mineral iron it will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach, but is promptly assimilated. Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how stronger and better you feel. Back if not improved. All good drugs.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF YOUR STATE?

Interesting Facts Gathered By State Government Agencies For The General Knowledge Of The People Of The State Of Alabama

The Chunnennuggee Horticultural Society in, then, Macon, now Bullock County was organized in 1849 and records of its 8th annual fair held May 1, 1856, therefore we assume that it was active through several years. The Robinson Springs Agricultural Association held its first annual fair in 1852 and the second, Nov. 2-4, 1853. The premium list as published in the "Cotton Planter" for July of that year indicated that prizes were offered for as many as 82 different exhibits. These included, cotton, wheat, saddle horses, cured hams, home made soap, shoes, daguerreotypes and paintings of fruits as well as many other as widely divergent.

Local fair records preserved in the Alabama department of archives and history include the Montgomery County Agricultural Society, organized 1853; Mobile Agricultural and Horticultural Society, 1853; Chambers County Fair, 1854; Pickens County Fair, 1854; Catoma (Montgomery County) Agricultural Society, 1855; Lowndes County Agricultural Society, 1856; Tennessee Valley Agricultural and Mechanical Association, 1857; Dallas County Agricultural Society, 1857; Demopolis, Agricultural and Horticultural Society of West Alabama, 1859.

The Alabama State Agricultural Society was organized at Montgomery Jan. 10, 1855. The first state fair was held in Montgomery Nov. 20-24, 1855 and was called "The Agricultural Fair and Cattle Show." It is referred to in the May issue, 1855, of the "Cotton Planter" as the "first grand State exhibition of the Southwest." Dr. N. B. Cloud, editor of that paper urges "upon the planters, mechanics and manufacturers of our state with their wives, their sons, and their daughters, to make this our first industrial jubilee, the object of their care and especial attention." The site at which this fair was held was north of the city of Montgomery on "a beautiful plateau of land immediately on the bank of the Alabama River." Old residents will remember that as Riverside Park. It was just north of the steam plant which furnishes electricity for the Alabama Power Co. The main building was "The Industrial Palace."

The Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical Association held a fair at Pickett Springs Nov. 18-22, 1872, the earliest of record after the War between the State though not the first. Fairs have been held in Montgomery at Riverside Park, at the old Western Railroad Depot, on Red Bridge Road east of the city, at Pickett Springs, at Clisby Park, and east of the original place, Riverside.

The State Grange conducted a state fair at Selma Oct. 26-31, 1875. The legislature by an act of March 3, 1876 chartered the Alabama State Grange Fair to hold annual or semi-annual exhibitions of the productive industries of the state.

Early dates for the holding of county fairs have been: North Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Florence, 1869; Central Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Selma, 1870; Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Eutaw, 1875; Agricultural and Mechanical Association of Wilcox County, Camden, 1872; Agricultural, Mechanical and Horticultural Association of Mobile, 1874; Calhoun County Fair Association, 1876.

These local associations, farmer's clubs, and rural committees did much to stimulate the consumption of what has been in recent years the factor most productive of the advancement of cultural interest in country life, the organization of farm bureaus on the order of our present state institution of that name. The men most prominent in the promotion of advancement in the efforts to improve agriculture and agricultural products were Dr. N. B. Cloud, who resided on his plantation near old LaPlace in Macon County, Mr. W. H. Chambers of Russell County, C. C.

1851. Mr. Chambers was the inspiration of this, "The Cotton Planter" began publication at Montgomery in 1853. This was Dr. Cloud's paper. These two consolidated Jan. 1857 and continued for some years as "American Cotton Planter and Soil of the South." It devoted its interest to "agriculture, horticulture, manufacturers, domestic and mechanical arts." The cuts, drawings and illustrative material carried in these volumes are remarkably fine for that early period.

DOE WITH HORNS FOUND

BERKELEY—A remarkable capture of nature, a doe with horns was shot recently and has been turned over to the museum of vertebrate zoology at the University of California. Prof. J. Grinnell of the zoology department said an examination showed that the animal was sterile, which probably accounted for the unusual growth of horns.

The True Cost of Printing

Do you consider printing as merely an expense necessary to the operation of your business? Or do you treat it as a means of building business?

Poor printing is an expense, not only in the money it costs, but in its undesirable reflection on your business.

Good printing costs nothing—it offsets its own cost and makes money for you.

Whether the printing be a direct appeal for business such as a circular or other form of direct advertising, or a statement or other office form, quality counts in the reckoning of its cost.

We look upon printing as something which should absorb its own cost and make a profit for its user. And we produce printing that does.

Morgan County High Certain To Give Hi Trouble In Smashing; Tusculumbia Strong

When the crimson tinted sweaters of Morgan County high appear upon the rock strewn wastes of Malone Park Friday afternoon there is sure to be a quickening of Albany high hearts for the Morgan County lads are coming here tomorrow afternoon with but one thought in mind, to fight and to win. The Morgan County lads are going to out weigh the golden clad eleven of Albany high and Morgan county has a pair of dependable backs who can be counted upon as ground gainers in Winton and Nelson. The Albany line, however, has proved a source of discontent to other plunging backs and may again hurl back the charges even of a heavier foe.

Coach Alford has not settled definitely upon his lineup for the Hi when they gather at 3:15 tomorrow afternoon. It is likely that his backfield will appear a bit patched up with Spencer and Bishop out of the fray, but he has speed to depend upon whether the boys are much in the avoidous line or not. Peri will do the signal calling with possibly Drake and Thombs as sureties in the ball totting category. The full back position remains a mystery. In the line Alford will use the Papenburg brothers as flankmen. Mitchell and Thompson will be doing chores about tackle, Wiggins and Zanvit will be back at guards and Hughes will be spinning the oval with reverse english. The Morgan County high lineup has not yet been received. The game is expected to be the choice of the local high games this year for the two institutions have never lost any affection upon each other in an athletic way. The game is called for 3:15.

CENTER OF CIGAR INDUSTRY IN TAMPA ALSO MOSTLY SPANISH

TAMPA—Ybor City is the center of the cigar industry in Tampa and of its population more than 25,000 people are of the Spanish race. A great many of them use the Spanish language almost exclusively.

Ybor City was named after one of the progenitors of the Ybor family, early settlers in Tampa. It appears as a city transplanted from Spain. The traditional love of the Spanish for music and drama resulted in the erection of the Centro Asturiano, a handsome opera and club house, where Metropolitan stars have frequently entertained.

Other Latin elements also are found in Ybor City, notably the Italians, who have built a beautiful auditorium as an adjunct to their club. Local activity in real estate has affected Ybor City and resulted in the displacement of some landmarks but the Latin element pursues its way unimpeded by such material matters as land values.

the gridiron menu for the weekend when the Tusculumbia-Tri-City coalition will be lined up for a swipe at the Independent scalp. This game is called for 3 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. is in the best condition of the year and raring for a chance to break into the victory column which they have been denied thus far this season. Coach Ashwander has not announced his Saturday lineup and may possibly figure a change in the backfield with Grisham going to work as a ball carrier. In the line he will probably use Clark and Byers at tackles, Roper and Sims or Holand at guards and Kirby at center. The selection for the flanks has not been made, though Yarbrough and Howell are looked upon as most likely to start. The Y has no reason or being confident of a victory after having a decisive win snatched from their hands last Friday against Falkville. The men are determined to go on and win, and there will be no slip up in the last thirty seconds of play.

SAILS TRIED IN PLOWING

BRIGHTLINGSEA—Sails were introduced as an aid to plowing in a soil tillers' match near this little seaside resort of which many of its residents are yachtsmen as well as farmers. The wind at times aided the horses in dragging the plow along but at other times puffs blew the implement to one side and spoiled a straight furrow which hindered the contestant's chance of winning first prize. Men as well as women participated in the contest, which the judges decided was a great success but thought there was little possibility of sails ever putting horses or noters out of business when it comes to plowing.

Rev. R. W. Sides has returned from conference and Tanner regrets to learn that he has been transferred to Falkville. He has done an excellent work here, especially in a business way, organizing the Ladies Home Missions, Junior and Senior Leagues and many other organizations in the church and Sunday school work. Falkville, where he was transferred, is a much larger charge than Tanner and Tanner gives him up with regret.

There will be a box supper next Friday evening at Tanner high school for the benefit of the high school.

HUNGARIAN PARLIAMENT FARED WITH CREATING NEW CURRENCY

BUDAPEST—Creation of a new currency, the establishment of the federal budget on a gold basis and the adjustment in re-valuation, are three problems to occupy the attention of the Hungarian Parliament when it reconvenes this fall.

Decision as to what shall be the unit of currency must be made first. Some favor the shilling now used by both Danzig and Austria, as the monetary unit. Others believe that the crown should be brought back to its pre-war value.

The budget question will be easily satisfied after the new currency has been selected. For the present the budget, while balanced, is still on a paper crown basis.

In re-valuating the war loans and other securities in which the people invested before and during the war, the Hungarians will be guided in a great measure by the experience of Germany with her re-valuation loans.

WHO HAS NAPOLEON'S DEATH BED ANTIQUARIES AGAIN ASK

PARIS—Who possesses Napoleon's death bed again is a question that is making antiquaries forget war debts and taxes.

The Countess of Laperouse, great granddaughter of General Montholon to whom Napoleon was supposed to have willed his death bed, attests to the genuineness of her possession by documents duly verified by notaries.

Prince Murat is said to have the real relic, which came into the Murat family by will from Caroline Bonaparte, Queen of Naples. Supporters of Montholon contend that this bed is only a camp bed to which the remains of the Emperor was transferred after his death.

Now comes an American amateur collector on the trail of the "real" death bed. It was offered for sale at Dauville last summer. French admirers of the Little Corporal became anxious lest this precious piece be exported from France. They started a subscription for its purchase. While waiting its final disposition in Paris someone started a controversy as to the authenticity of the bed.

The owners of two other Napoleon death beds are keeping dark for the moment, waiting to see how the controversy turns before deciding what line to take.
